In no one man will be found all the qualifications requisite for the sanitation of a large town. So fully is this recognised that everywhere throughout the whole empire representative hodies have been created for the purpose, oven in Hongkong. Sir WILLIAM ROBINson, however, apparently thinking more of the traditions of an official hierarcy than of the public interest, wants to overturn all that, and, as he was unsuccessful in his scheme of abolishing the Sanitary Board outright, is trying by indirect means to render distinctly said that Sunday work was, as far as its continued existence impossible. LI HAN-CHANG'S REMOVAL.

There seems to be some misunderstanding as to the actual wording of the Imperial edict of the 14th lostant which was supposed to remove the Viceroy Li Han-chang from his seat at Cantou. As a matter of fact, the decree in question was merely a rescript to the memorial of Li to a malady which required quiet and rest to Trotal of Hainan island, Yang, Colonel-Comdier-General, named Wang, had been proved in some instances, in consequence of which the two Yange were cashlered and dismissed forever from the public service, whilst the last named was only deprived of his rank and titles. It thus turns out that Li Han chang has not been dismissed in disgrace, but has simply had his prayer granted by the Emperor to retire into private life -N.C. Daily News.

> THE IMPERIAL JAPANESE PROCLAMATION.

Tokyo, 23rd April. An Imperial proclamation has been issued in which the Emperor declares that he is convinced that through peace the national prosperity will be promoted, and since his accession to the throne it has been His Majesty's desire to preserve peace that may be of lasting advantage to the country. His Majesty repeats his former regrets at the rapture of friendly relations with China, and save that his Ministers, acting in concert with the Army and Navy and both Houses of the Diet, have done all in their power to further imperial objects, and nothing was left undone at ome to elaborate plans of action, supply money, and perfect national defences; whilst abroad, unmindful of the bitter winter cold or blazing mmmer heat, the expeditionary forces, triumphing over every difficulty and enduring hardships. bore their standard everywhere victoriously, and garned a reputation for discipline and humanity. His Majesty praises their earnest loyalty and valour, and expresses his high pleasure that negoliations have terminated and that the armistice has been prolonged to permanent cossation of hostilities. His Majesty is certain that Chida has shown sincerity in repenting of breach of faith, and while addition has already been made to the glory of the Empire, yet much remains to be done during the march onward to increased civilisation. His Majesty hopes that his lovel subjects will guard egainst a conquited spirit, but with modesty and humility strive to perfect military defences without going to extremes, andpromote education and refinement without engendering effections. His Majesty severely rebukes beforehand all attempts through conceit on account of recent victories to injure relations with or insult riendly Powers, especially China. After the exchange of ratifications friendship should be restored and endeavours made for increased harmony. His Majesty requires his subjects to respect his wishes.—N. C. Daily News.

BLACKBALLING.

Truth of the 14th ult. says :- Apropos of what was said in last week's Truth about blackbilling at clubs, I hear of two recent cases in the Royal Dorset Yacht Club, which have caused a good deal of commotion in Weymouth, and the neighbourhood. The viotims of the blackballer in this instance were two retired officers of high rank, one of whom, when he formerly held commandin the district, was a member of the very club for which he has now been blackballed, and both are officers of the highest reputation, and well-known throughout the service. A number of the officers of the garrison who belong to the club have sent in their resignations in consequeuce of this event, and I should be serry to say that they are in any way to blame. There is a vast difference in this respect butween a West End clob of world-wide membership and a merely local club. In the latter the blackball is, more often than not, a mere instrument of personal spite or petty cliquism, and, so far as, my experience goes, it is usually employed in a way quite destructive of the harmony of club life, and inimical to the best interests of the elnb. I wonder that such clubs do not abolish the blackball altogether, or confine its use within much narrower limits than it is at present allowed.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

Not the least marvellous of genuine hypnotic phenomens are the bodily effects produced by suggestion. As early as 1840, says I r. Harrist U. B. Alexander of Chicago, Dr. Louis Prejalmini with "magnetised" paper produced the Chi eff-ct of cantharides. Björnstrom demonstrated | Dal that, by suggestion, congestion may be produced, Dai carried to raised swelling of the skin, to a Fer blister like that of cantharides, to bloody sweat, line and even to complete formation of a wound. H: Charcot and his pupils thus produced all the H. phonomena of burns. In 1885 Beautis blis- tion tored by suggestion the back, and arm of the a carefully-watched hypnotized patient, and Facachon produced blisters on the left ear and left temple of another patient in the same way. In Dr. Alexander's own practice a case | 11 has occurred in which an hysteric was blist red by a belladonna plaster proven to be inert on other persons, after which cantharides was applied without result for 12 hours, the patient having been told that it was simply a pain-curing plaster. The patient was at no time in the true hypnotic state, but was very susceptible to suggestion. Blood sweat has been produced by several operators. Bourry wrote with a blunt instrument on a hypnotized man's arm, telling the patient the lines would bleed at a certain hour, and at the prescribed time blood dripped from the letters. Björnstrom remarks that these experiments explain the phenomena of stigmatization -or the supposed apportantal appearance of wounds imitating those of Christ-which have occurred in Buddhism in the middle ages and in modern

Part of the work of the International Bureau of Weights and Measures, which was established in 1875, is to supply three standards to each of the 21 contracting nations. Great Britain is the first: country receiving the full set, comprising a "line" standard metre measure, a kilogram weight, and an "end" standard metre measure. From the specimens of soil he has succeeded in mining. plants representing about fifty species, including some that are essentially words of cultivation; and he finds the belief justified that buried seeds of many pasture plants and corn field weeds retain their vitality much more than half a century, at least under the described conditions.

The food hubits of woodpeckers have been studied by Mr. F. E. I., Beal from an examination of more than 600 stomachs. He has found that the Hairy and Downy Woodpeckers (Dryobator villague and pubescens) feed chiefly on barmful ingests, eating also wild fruits and seeds. The Flicker (Colaptes auratus) subsists largely on auts, of which insects more than 3 000 were contained in each of two stowachs. This species also eats other noxious insects and some wild fruit. The food of the Red-besded Woodrocker (Melanerpes erythrocephalus) is largely insects. menrly all harmful, with wild fruit and some corn and oultivated fruit. The Yellow Rellied Woodproker, or Sap-sucker (Sphyrapicus varius), feeds largely on the inner bark and sap of trees, eating also ante and other insects, and is the only species taking more vegetable than animal food
